WASHINGTON, July 24.-The Grand Jury to-day found a true bill against Frederick C. Alnsworth, Chief of the Record and Pension Division of the War Department; George W. Asasworth, a Captain and assistant surgeon in the army, as the head of the Division, with the rank of Colonei, and that he was given charge of the old Ford's Theatre building and of the persons employed in it, and was so in charge on the day of June 3, 1852, at 10 o clock, when portions of the second and third floors of the building fell.

The indictment describes in detail the excavations that were in progress for the purpose of putting in an electric light plant at the time of the accident, and avers that Frederick C. Ainsworth, George W. Dant, William E. Covert and Francis Sasse undertook the performance of this work and being wholly unmindful of their duty, removed the carth supporting the pier without having first caused the pier to be relieved by shoring from the great pressure upon it of the weight of iron columns, iron beams, cross beams and parts of the floors immediately above it.

Judge Bischoff, of the Court of Common Pleus, to-day refused to grant an absolute divorce to Maris Combes from Franklin D. Combes, on the ground that these was proof of collusion. some other person.

As Dr. O'Sullivan and Lawyer Brooks, his partner, have not decided as yet whether they will undertake the defense of Meyer, the prisoner at the Tombs receives many letters from lawyers who seek lame or reputation through being connected with his case. In most instances they specify that no fee will be demanded for their services, and offer that as a special inducement.

The firm of Brooke, O'Sullivan & Brooke realizes that the big insurance companies are rady to lay out $1,000,000 to convict Meyer, and that it is no trivial matter to put up a fight against them which will redound to their own credit, even if they should not secure, as they hope, an acquittal of the prisoner. Having undertaken the defense of Dr. Buchanan without the experience which that case has given them, they do not propose to try the same thing again without having a more definite ida than before of about how matters are going to turn out financially.
Dr. O'Sullivan, who was seen at his an "Evening World" reporter that the county had spent $107,000 on the Buchanan case.He expects that a much larger sum will be expended to convict

SAGE CASE IN COURT.

Affidavits Presented in Opposing an Extension of the Hearing.

Delia Keegan's Story Reteld to Judge Bookstaver.

Finnacier Also Read. Another chapter in the famous litigs recently begun against Russell Sage, the financier, by Lawyer J. Baptist Marshallon enalf of Della Keegan, who swears she was wronged twenty-five years ago by the Wall afreet magnate, was togun to-day in the Special Term of the Court of Comm perore Judge Bookstaver. The hearing this morning was upon a me-tion by Lawyer Marshall for an order to ye tion by Lawyer Marshall for an order to ye cate an order granting an extension of 20 days time to the derendant Sage in which he might file an amended answer to the complaint.

Judge Bookstaver came thus court at 11.28 and considered several matters of minor memoriance before taking up the Keegan-Sage case. Neither Mr. Sage nor Della Keegan was in court at the time, and it was whapsage that neither would be at any time during these proceedings.

The court-room was well filled when the plaintiff. Della Keegan, entered, a few minutes before 12, with a young man, a brother of her attorney. She had a frightened look in her big brown eyes, and a settled look of anxiety rested on her face. She was attired plainily, in a dark blue gown, and wore a small jet hat, with a bunch of white blossoms. She is quite tall, the face is of ample proportions, and her and was fixured at easily sixty years.

Lawyer Marshall came into court with a rush, his face of a waxen yellow paleness, and his manner jerky and agisted. He had in his hands an affidavit, builty in thickness, and which he was to read. He had in his hands an affidavit, builty in thickness, and which he was to read. He had in his hands an affidavit, builty in thickness, and which he was to read. He had in his hands an affidavit, builty in thickness, and which he was to read. He dadressed the Court to the effect that he was there to present a motion to vacate an order extending the time for defendant's answer, and said he would present affidavits in support of his protion.

Judge Bookslaver requested the atter-davit of Mr. Sage, in which he says the plaintiff and her lawyer are in a conspiracy to extort $100,000 from him (Sage), and he called for an immediate answer to the plaintiff's allegations.

Another affidevit was offered from Lewis Sayre Burchard, an attorney occupying the same apartments with Lawyer Marshall, and he protests against his name being introduced his any proceedings in the case, and asking for the protection of the Court in his objection to the defendant's reserving to him indirectly as being one of the "designing men who were trying to extort money from him (Sage)."

In a second affidavit sworm to by himself, Lawyer Marshall, among other things, characterized the affidavit of defendant as wiful and malicious perjury. There were more affidavits yet to be affered.

The next affidavit was that of the testimony of Mary Mulheron, once a cook for Sage, and sister of Airs. Keegan. This was the testimony ordered to be taken before Charles A. Runk under an order of the court as referee.

In this affidavit Mrs. Mulheros said the worst she ever told Mr. Sage about her sister Delia was that she caused her stouble on account of her drinking habits, and that she never told Mr.
Sage that her sister was a common woman.
